Eugene Field's
Views on Ambition and Dyspepsia.

"Dyspepsia," wrote Eugene Field,
"often incapacitates a man for endeavor and sometimes extinguishes the fire of ambition." Though great despite his complaint Field suffered from indigestion all his life. A weak, tired stomach can't digest your food. It needs rest. You can only rest it by the use of a preparation like Kodol, which relieves it of work by digesting your food.
Rest soon restores it to its normal tone

Where Home is.

I am weary of lock-outs and coal smoke,
Of railways and cobbles and noise;
I long to go back to the country
Where once I was "one of the boys";
To eat mush-and-milk with the natives
And swap stories down at the store;
To sleep on the fat feather bed-tick
That's built away up from the floor!

I am weary of dodging and crowding,
Of dandies and lackeys and such;
I long to go back to the country
Where "show" is not overly much.
To eat mother's doughnuts and flapjacks
And holler across our back lawn
At neighbors I knew when a youngster—Those neighbors of thrift and of brawn.

I am weary of toiling and hoping,
Of toiling and hoping again;
I long to go back to the country
And slip to bed promptly at 10;
To sit in the old-fashioned parlor
And rest with all trouble discharged,
Just rest in the old patch-work cushions.
And gaze at the pictures enlarged.
There's father and mother and William,
And poor little Helen who is dead—
And me—a fat little shaver

A PICTURE OF UNCLE.

With hair plastered close to my head;
And sister and Susan and uncle—
All hung in their black oval frames,
Suspended from nails in the plaster,—
And under the pictures the names!

Yes, I'm weary of hoping and striving,
Of slaving all day in the din;
I long to go back to the country
And think it all over again;
To get a new grip on the throttle,
To get steam for the mountainous land,
To gain inspiration and courage
That comes from the firm, horny hand!

So, at nightfall it's off to the sleeper,
That stands in the heart of the noise,
But speeds to the land of my birthplace,
Where once I was "one of the boys."

THE ROMANS AGAIN.

Over in Rome (New York) history
repeats itself!
General Caesar is janitor in a twelve-flat building in the Proscenium de Publicuso, across the-court from the Tiberius Bastillo.
It is a cold and marrow-chilling morning in Rome. Calus Pompayus, in his slumbering toga, and with great goose pimples on his legs, is tiptoeing angrily about his apartment.
"A bas!" he cries. "A bas! Here it is sun-up in Rome, and the thermometer bulb at only 37 degrees above freezing!"
Rushing wildly to the court bedroom he shouts up the area-way:
"Citizens, neighbors, boarders, roomers, jays who are visiting and avoiding hotel bills!
"Sic semper tyrannus!
"Sicem!"
"Sic!"

With low mutterings that grew from infinitesimal grumbling into a mighty din of discord, the populace of the vicinity of the Proscenium de Publicuso rushed into the Arena des Aleleyo, Marcus Junius Brutus in the lead.
"Pro bono publico!" he bellowed.
"Portico de front porchio! Down with Caesar!"
At this juncture Caesar himself issued from the boiler region and stood aghast, pale and trembling.
Slowly the menacing mob drew nearer and nearer!
"S'death! S'death to the janitorio!"
they cried in chorus.
Hardly had the angry echoes died in the area-way, than Marcus Junius Brutus, armed with a frozen weiner-wurst, sprang with uplifted hand toward General Caesar.
With one stifling gasp the janitorio
wailed:
"Et tu, Brute!" and fell back into the garbage can, DEAD!

"Pro justice!" murmured the crowd.
"Nux vomica, ripe tomato yabaniano!
Rushthecanoe! S'death!"
Then they elected Marcus Junius Brutus janitor, and dispersed forthwith.

Sometimes Need'd.

Bings—"Do you know, Wings, I think it a woefully bad custom, this throwing of rice at newly married couples!"
Wings—"Yes?"
Bings—"Yes! How much better it would be to hand it to them in a sack as a nucleus on which to begin housekeeping!"

Nothing has ever equalled it.
Nothing can ever surpass it.

HAVE YOU HEARD OF THE LION'S MOUTH?

The Old Venetian Idea is Adopted by a Progressive American Newspaper to Meet Modern Negatives.

Collier's Weekly is conducting a very novel and interesting competition for its readers each month. To enter the competition all one has to do is to register the name of Collier's for the current month and answer the two or three questions which are printed in each issue, giving each opinion and each suggestion as will aid in improving the paper. Collier's aims in this way to secure the assistance of every one of its readers in making the paper more to their liking. Every reader, in fact, becomes one of the editors and has his voice in building the greatest illustrated journal of the age.

The first prize each month, awarded for the most helpful suggestion, is $50 in cash, with a second prize of $25 in cash, and eighteen other prizes of sets of books, ranging in value from $25 down to $5, making in all $225 of value given in prizes each month. There are, in addition, cumulative cash prizes, for those who win prizes in successive months, and a big cash prize of $1000 for the most valuable suggestions during 1905.

For the convenience of intending contestants who can not be promptly supplied by newsdealers, all the copies of Collier's for the current month will be sent postpaid, together with a handsome proof of a drawing by Charles Dana Gibson, upon receipt of 40 cents in stamps addressed to The Lion's Mouth
Collier's Weekly, 425 West 18th street,
New York.
